Box Hill Institute

Why should you study at Box Hill Institute?

Our corporate values recognise the importance of contributing to our community. A number of publications are available for download to learn more about our offerings, events, staff and vision. Much of our business is governed by our policies and procedures.

Box Hill Institute provides education and training in a range of local and international locations with a total enrolment of approximately 40,000 over its campuses and licensed partners in Melbourne and in Singapore, Macau, Kuwait, Dubai, Abu Dhabi, Fiji, Samoa, PNG, Vanuatu, Vietnam (4 sites), Malaysia and China (14 approved sites).

The Institute is well known for its community corporate giving program and is involved in many projects that give back to the community including building houses for homeless youth, the Burgess Foundation for disadvantage, Special Olympics, Too Young to Work: India, KOTO: Vietnam, Reach Out for Kids, Eastern Relief, Jamie Oliver Foundation - Melbourne 15 program, Oxfam, Relay for Life

The Institute is headed by an experienced CEO and Senior Management Team who are experts in their fields and this passion for education flows throughout the organisation.

We are building our reputation to ensure our graduates gain vocationally relevant skills and knowledge, and experience a global dimension to their learning and are successful.

We operate in a global environment of intense competition, technological change and continuous innovation. With our international partners in the Global Education Network, we are expanding global learning opportunities for our students to enhance their employability in the global market.

Our industry partnerships give students access to internationally recognised training and practical experience with current technology and processes. We connect our people with best practice and new environments through developing industry partnerships and national and international activity.

Students graduate ready for work. The program design and delivery equips students with the skills, knowledge and attitudes to apply their learning to new situations, to solve problems, to work creatively and cooperatively and to sustain lifelong learning.
