IELTS Australia invites you and your colleagues to a presentation on IELTS and the opportunity to network with colleagues over morning tea.

This presentation is suitable for:

- Education providers – international student recruitment and admissions staff, teaching and learning support, policy makers and academics from the disciplines of language and education.

- Assessing authorities and employers – managers and administrators involved in setting and reviewing IELTS band scores when assessing overseas qualifications.

Key IELTS Australia staff will deliver this session along with Andrew Thomas, one of six IELTS Principal Examiners responsible for assuring global consistency and accuracy of IELTS test marking. Andrew has contributed to English language teaching and testing for over 35 years in teaching roles, as a Director of Studies, and most recently as Associate Director at Sydney English Language Centre. For 12 years Andrew held the post of Reviews Editor for the English Australia Journal. Andrew has been involved with IELTS since its creation in 1989 as an examiner, Examiner Trainer and, since 2007, as a Principal Examiner.

Why IELTS continues to be the world’s most popular high-stakes English language test

This presentation is designed to give insight into how IELTS continues to be the most reliable indicator available of English language proficiency.
