DIRECTOR, INDUSTRY SKILLS DEVELOPMENT

Government of South Australia

Department of Further Education,
Employment, Science and Technology

The Department of Further Education, Employment, Science and Technology (DFEEST) has entered an exciting new phase. With a new Chief Executive, new Strategic Plan, newly established Training and Skills Commission, and strengthened linkages with industry, the organisation is poised to make a difference amidst changing economic circumstances.

The focus of this recently created senior executive role is to be the Department's key interface with industry and to work closely with the business community to deliver training and employment programs that meet the changing needs of industry. The Director will lead a high performance and dynamic team and have responsibility for various funding programs and a substantial budget.

With a strong network and credibility across industry and government, the successful candidate will possess a high level of commercial acumen and will be outcomes focused with the capacity to deliver positive and timely employment and training solutions in response to structural adjustments in the economy.

The successful candidate will have the ability to forge strong relationships and will be dynamic and passionate about making a difference. Strong leadership, high level interpersonal skills, together with experience working with a broad range of key stakeholders including industry leaders, Ministers and senior executives from State and Commonwealth Governments are essential.

This is a challenging and rewarding role and an outstanding opportunity for an experienced senior executive to contribute directly to the economic growth of South Australia.
