Opportunities to work in the Community Services and Health industries are abundant, including traditional occupations and evolving job roles. Vocational Education and Training (VET) pathways enable access to a multitude of career opportunities and professional development.

VET skills and knowledge can be readily transferred to different work settings and locations, giving workers the freedom to expand their career prospects across sectors, Australia and overseas.

This is an opportunity for parents to understand how to maximise their children's study options and for career advisers to learn how to assist young people build a great career with a future.

Dr Michael Carr-Gregg is an outstanding and highly motivational speaker on a wide variety of subjects associated with health lifestyle and well being. Dr Carr-Gregg combines credibility, outstanding communication skills with an ability to really make a difference to the lives of those who hear him. In 1985, he founded the world's first national teenage cancer patients support group, Canteen. Michael Carr-Gregg has extensive experience in the media and is currently a regular on the top rating 'Sunrise' program on Channel 7 and on Melbourne radio and is a frequent contributor to the Australian Print media. In 2000 he was the subject of a This is Your Life on Channel 9.

Michael Smith's work in Aged Care earned him the 2005 Prime Minister's Award for Skills Excellence in 2005 for his Vocational Studies, and the 2007 Tasmania's Young Australian of the Year. At high school he was labelled 'at risk', but supported by a teacher, Michael completed his year 12 Tasmanian Certificate of Education, and Certificate III in Community Services – Aged Care, going onto achieving his diploma as an Enrolled Nurse in Aged and Palliative Care. Michael has been travelling around Australia speaking to thousands of parents, teachers, principals, young people and employers about Vocational Education and Training (VET), employability skills and motivational talks on a variety of topics to inspiring and encouraging them to reach their full potential in life.
