

National Career and Employment Roadshow

The Community Services and Health Industry Skills Council is holding a series of free information sessions showcasing four brand new ISC resources to help you determine your pathway to employment and training opportunities in the community services and health industries.

The workshops mark the official launch of:

- two new websites - CareerthatMatter.com.au providing information on careers, labour market information and workforce participation in the CS&H industries; and PathwaysthatMatter.com.au an online tool assisting job seekers learn about career pathways in our industries.
- a new addition to the MAGIC Resource Kit which features materials to assist you in establishing programs for people with a disability looking for work in the community services and health industries. The existing MAGIC resources; Parents Returning to the Workforce and Mature Aged Workers, will also be referenced. Everyone attending a workshop will receive a MAGIC Resource Kit at event registration.
- an online resource called The Competency Matrix. This website provides easy and intuitive navigation through the qualifications, units of competency and skill sets within the Community Services and Health vocational education training packages.

Take this great opportunity to network with other job seekers, Job Service Providers, Apprenticeship Centres, RTOs, HR Professionals, Career Advisers and parents. Everyone is welcome to attend including people with a disability, Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander job seekers, people from culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds and mature aged job seekers.
